July 27, 2005

I read at Poetry Incarnation 2005! at the Khyber on July 5. Without a doubt, the best poetry reading I have ever attended.

Organizers Adam Fieled and Mike Land envisioned this as a tribute to the original "Poetry Incarnation" in June '65 at the Royal Albert Hall, which introduced Allen Ginsberg and Gregory Corso to Swinging London. And I gotta tell ya, the spirit was there. So I've posted here the opening night address by Adam: a screed about Philadelphia, and the opportunity it represents.
